How old does my child have to be to start playing hockey? Timbit Initiation hockey is for ages 4-6 year olds.

My child does not currently know how to skate. Can he/she still play? Of course it is helpful for coaches if your child has had some skating experience. That being said, many children start the season with very limited skating experience and do just fine.

Does the FMHA have a non/travel team? Yes, initiation is little to no travel. Currently Novice and Atom has a non travel team that you can request to be on. This is fairly new to our association as we are trying to accommodate all players needs.
