1. Check to see that shot clocks are plugged in. Sometimes they get bumped and both must be plugged in to function properly

2. Check to see if remote is functioning. If shot clocks are on but won't start or reset. Make sure remote is plugged in to back of console. If still not functioning, exchange remote with main clock remote. If main clock remote starts and resets the shot clocks then wiring is shot for the original remote. Contact arena attendant for new remote. If you can't find anyone or if game is in progress, use Console to stop and start main clock and use the plug in the working remote to the back of the console to run and reset the shot clock.
