

“I hate how it makes me feel, which is basically sick. But I love what it brings out. It forces our players and coaches to improve and to make better decisions. Only through adversity do we arrive at a more complete perspective and understanding of the game.”